Bets with cashback

An example of a cashback promo is a “no goals scored refund” when you bet on the outcome of a football match. If you have placed a bet on a specific result but the match ends in a 0-0 draw, if you are using the “no goals scored refund” then the betting site pays back your original stake. Obviously this sort of special offer is great news for disappointed fans. There are several other types of cashback specials that you can apply to different sports and situations. Some refunds are even given out just to reward those punters who play each week!

To get your money back from this promo, you have to include a minimum of five selections at min odds of 1.80. More importantly, you only get your stake back if one leg lets you down. If two or more picks lose, you won't get your ACCA Insurance.

You have to do a little digging to locate the best cashback deals. Unlike other promos, such as first deposit bonus offers, cashback promotions can be tricky to find. However, we can help. With our four-step cashback-finder guide, we can show you how to find the best cashback promos instantly. Read on and claim your first cashback deal right away.
