How to play online casino

It's easy to forget that everyone has to start somewhere with their casino gaming. Online casinos can seem like confusing places when you're just starting out. After all, you'll see thousands of different games as well as no shortage of promotions offering you untold riches

Look out for Welcome Bonuses split into 3, 4, or even five parts. You will then sometimes need to go to the promotions section and get the bonus code ID, which you will use alongside your deposit. If you cannot find it on the promo page, then the code will be in the terms and conditions section of the Welcome Bonus code.

What this means is that if you own an iPad, an Android Smartphone, and a Windows desktop PC, you can install the casino app or play from the casino's web browser using the same account across all your devices. The same casino balance will show because you will be playing from the same account.

When looking for the best online casino, you should consider a range of criteria to make sure you pick the right one. While we've compiled different lists for you above, the final decision's down to you. Here's what you should pay special attention to:

In terms of game variety, BetMGM blows away the competition with 2,100+ titles. They've teamed up with an elite group of providers, so you're in for top-quality gaming action. You'll find games from heavy hitters like NetEnt, AGS, Konami, and IGT. Additionally, BetMGM is among the few platforms offering well-known games from Play'n GO and Novomatic.

FanDuel's intro offer is nice! Players get up to $1,000 back in site credit if they lose in their first 24 hours. No rollover. No surprise restrictions. It's one of the simplest "safety net" promos around. Ongoing usually come in the form of short-term boosts, like slot tournaments, parlay insurance tie-ins, or day-specific free spins. They're not always huge, but they're easy to access and don't come with scrolls of fine print.

This is where FanDuel excels. The live dealer section is powered by Evolution and runs without stutters or long queues, even in prime hours. Blackjack tables are always available. Baccarat and roulette are reliable. You also get some house-exclusive table games that aren't just carbon copies of what's everywhere else.

These attempt to replicate the feel of a physical casino table and are streamed in real time. Blackjack, roulette, baccarat, and game-show-style formats like Dream Catcher are standard in most live lobbies. Evolution Gaming powers the majority of these and sets the bar pretty high for video quality and table variety.

Promos change weekly, and they usually make sense. There are slot multipliers, leaderboard contests, reload bonuses, and game-specific missions. They're not oversized, but they're steady, and they aren't loaded with disclaimers.

FanDuel built its name in fantasy sports and sports betting, but its casino platform holds its own. It's licensed in multiple U.S. states and rarely shows up in complaint threads about payment delays or bonus scams. The interface is polished, uncluttered, and easy to move through, even for first-time players. Everything works the way that you'd expect: games load without friction, balances update instantly, and deposits hit your account fast.

Not to brag, but we are online casino connoisseurs. And being gambling site specialists, we can tell you that not all of them are made for real players. It's not even close. Some of them bury their terms and conditions, stall payouts, or load their game lobbies with filler just so they hit a certain number. That's why our guide was made—to show you which platforms are worth signing up for in 2025.
